Silverado Ranch Dog Park Ready for May 21 Renovation Celebration

The Silverado Ranch Dog Park has been undergoing renovations, and now, the grand re-opening event is in sight. On Saturday, May 21, visitors of the park can stop by—and bring their dogs—to enjoy the new space.

As part of the grand re-opening, what the Commissioner is deeming a "renovation celebration", people visiting the park can expect an array of exciting amenities: coffee and pastry food trucks, our LVMPD K-9 team, local pet supply stores, and a dog adoption sponsored by The Animal Foundation.

The Silverado Ranch Dog Park renovation project was generously donated by a member of the local community. We are proud to reopen this park—with its fresh grass, picnic tables, and shade structures for everyone to enjoy.

Highlights From All Around A

National Donate Life Month began on April 1, and Commissioner Naft spoke at Nevada Donor Network's kickoff event for their campaign, "You Don't Have to Wear a Badge to be a Hero", which is dedicated to educating individuals about the importance of organ donation.

April was Autism Acceptance Month, and in solidarity with the Grant a Gift Autism Foundation—Ackerman Center's mission, the "Welcome to Las Vegas" sign turned blue.

UNLV's Dr. Deirdre Clemente was recognized on April 19, for her preservation work with the historic Walking Box Ranch in Searchlight, NV, for which she won UNLV's Office of Community Engagement's 2022 Service-Learning award.

Commissioner Naft attended the 6 Million Steps campaign event, held to preserve the memory of the Holocaust and remember those who lost their lives. There, Commissioner Naft and his daughter met Lucy Jacobs, a Holocaust survivor.

On April 24, Commissioner Naft observed "Armenian Genocide Remembrance Day" at Sunset Park's Armenian Genocide Memorial Monument.

NFL Draft Weekend in Vegas: How We're Becoming the "Greatest Arena on Earth"

NFL Draft weekend in Las Vegas was a roaring success. An estimated 300,000 people took to the NFL Draft Experience and Theater on the Strip and participated in the variety of festivities that were offered, including Vegas headlining performances, a concert series, and autographs from Las Vegas Raiders players. Commissioner Naft toured the security command and back of house operations. There are thousands of individuals who help make a national event of this magnitude happen, including members of IATSE 702, Culinary 226, Clark County Public Works, Las Vegas Metropolitan Police Department, and so many more. NFL Draft weekend helped solidify Vegas' place as the "Greatest Arena on Earth." Las Vegas is now the only destination in the world to be awarded all three marquee NFL events at once: the Pro Bowl, the NFL Draft, and the Super Bowl in 2024.

After a Two-Year Long Closure, PALMS Casino Resort Reopens in District A

To kick-off the PALMS reopening after a two-year-long hiatus, Commissioner Naft attended the team member rally on Tuesday, April 26, as well as the tribal ceremony and grand re-opening celebration on Wednesday, April 27. The PALMS re-opened its doors just in time for Las Vegas to kick off NFL Draft weekend, making it a hot spot in District A for visitors. Commissioner Naft presented a proclamation to the San Manuel Band of Mission Indians, for their part in reopening this iconic property. The PALMS is now the first property in Las Vegas to be owned and operated by a Native American tribe.
